COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Office of Civic and Social Responsibility
The Office of Civic and Social Responsibility (OCSR) is dedicated to developing engaged, civic-minded citizens and leaders for our communities. UNO believes service and engagement are vital components for the educational development of all students and for a sustainable, healthy community. Learn more on the Civic and Social Responsibility website (https://www.unomaha.edu/student-life/civic-and-social-responsibility/).

Service Learning Academy
Service learning is an experiential, collaborative method of teaching that incorporates community projects that promote academic learning. These projects are directly linked to academic curriculum and meet community-identified needs while engaging students in their community and provide real-world context to coursework. As such, service learning course ‘classrooms’ often exist in the community and engage community partners as co-teachers. Throughout the course students reflect on their experiences, consider the relationship to their reading and research, relevance to community growth, and impact on their personal values, development, and professional skills.

Every semester, there are a variety of courses in all UNO colleges that use service learning as a method of instruction. By choosing a service learning course, students are able to:

• Apply textbook knowledge to the real world and engage with homework
• Use and develop strengths
• Discover new skills & talents
• Explore their leadership style
• Learn to communicate with others and work in teams
• Sharpen skills that employers want such as problem solving, critical thinking, innovation, and creativity
• Explore the assets in the community
• Build their résumé

To search for service learning courses, choose ‘service learning’ under the Program tab in the class search function.

To explore service learning course options and project examples, please visit the Service Learning Academy (http://www.unomaha.edu/servicelearning/) website.

Barbara Weitz Community Engagement Center (CEC)
As a metropolitan university, UNO encourages its students to be active and civically engaged members and leaders in a diverse and evolving society. The CEC is a unique place where UNO students can access volunteer opportunities, service events, service learning inquiries, service learning projects and events, student jobs and internships, and community engagement-based events. The CEC is home to over 35 university and community building partner organizations that work side by side in flexible office spaces to improve the quality of life for those they serve.

Learn more about the CEC (https://www.unomaha.edu/community-engagement-center/).